

Memory Foam Mattresses

What is a Memory Foam mattress?

Developed by NASA to relieve extreme G-force pressures, logically the same properties are perfect for use as a mattress.

When a force is applied to conventional foams, the foam pushes back offering resistance, much like a spring.

Revolutionary Visco-Elastic memory foam is heat sensitive so when a force is applied by a human body which happens to be warm, the foam will soften giving much less resistance. The result is the memory foam moulds itself to the shape of your body reducing pressure points.

Reduced pressure points mean much more comfort and support. For frail or those at risk of pressure sores reduced pressure is essential. Please see our extensive range of nursing care mattresses.

A zip off washable top is included as part of the mattress.

Spare Washable Tops are available.

Foam Densities

A Memory Foam mattress of 8" (20cm) can not be made completely of memory foam or you will be engulfed in it. The base 5" (12.5cm) is Reflex Foam®. Then to reduce the pressure, combining comfort and support with correct posture, the top 3" (7.5cm) is Memory foam.

Choose from a range of three foam densities to give you the correct posture and support.

It Would Be Nice To Say Which Mattress You Should Use Based On Your Weight and Height

Unfortunately it does not work that way. With over 20 years experience we know that trying the mattresses in our showroom is not the same as sleeping on it at home. The recommended weights on the previous page are a very rough guideline. But to ensure you have the perfect mattress we offer an exchange if your first selection is too firm or soft.

British Vita (Vita Foam) are one of the worlds leading manufacturers of both Memory Foam and Reflex Foam®. Their foam is used by the NHS in hospital mattresses, even for patients at high risk of pressure sores. A great deal of research and trials have been carried out to develop the perfect sleeping surface. We feel this is the best quality and combination available. We are guided by the expertise of British Vita (Vita Foam) in our mattress production.

Chronic backache, poor circulation, pressure relief or just because you deserve it!

We offer a range of four Memory Tech mattresses in different densities to suit each individual's personal requirements. All our Memory Tech mattresses are produced using high quality Vita foam, so no expense is spared. Many of our competitors use inferior, thinner foam which although cheaper is a false economy and does not give customers the wonderful benefits of a true memory foam mattress, and will not last anywhere near as long.

All our mattresses are supplied with a durable 'luxury loft' zip off quilted washable top. The quality of the memory foam and the ventilation from the thick washable top make sweating unlikely. Spare washable tops are available separately. Please visit <http://www.bed-adjustable.co.uk/products/washable-tops.html>
