We are confident that once you feel the quality you will appreciate that there are adjustable beds and there are Back Care Beds Adjustable Beds.

Features and Design

A strong open ended nylon zip is used so that it is easy to remove the top only.

To the left is a picture showing how some conventional washable covers are made. Manufactured using a zip in the middle, and only unzipping three sides. The reason is that it costs far less to produce. The problem is that in order to wash the cover, you first have to manhandle the complete cover from the mattress core. Then try fitting the whole cover in the washing machine, actually that is not always so difficult because most competitors will also economise on the material thickness.

Our cover completely unzips around the top edge, so although it is very thick, depending on the width, it should fit easily in the machine.

Material

The material has been developed specifically for adjustable beds by Bio Ticking in Holland. It is technologically advanced and has been awarded the prestigious Eco certificate at the highest level.

As no expense is spared in producing this cover, in order to achieve the best stretch properties and give a much longer lasting product, we use the same high quality material as a backing as we use for the top cover.

Washing

Washing at temperatures of up to 72°C is ok as the fabric is pre washed and is designed to wash at these temperatures for use in care homes.

We should point out that continually washing at such high temperatures will eventually reduce the quilted loft of any filling material. So with modern washing powders and liquids, 30°C to 40°C should do the job.

Tumble drying is not recommended which is why a spare washable top is a good idea.
